THE WEST POINT CASE.

WEST POINT, April 10th.—Inquiry in the Whittaker case was resumed this morning Whittaker was recalled. He said he had no conversation with his assailants, except to say, "Please don't cut my ear." He had been told that the gas was found lighted in the morning, but that he had positively extinguished it before his retirement. When the surgeon aroused him he thought his assailants had returned. Penknife and scissors found in his room he identified as his own. He was shown a white handkerchief with the corner cut out, and that was found in his room, but said that he never saw it before Thursday last. During the examination he was taken into an ante-room where the Court examined his ears, ankle and head, and on his return in answer to the question, said that in his opinion an oath was binding on his conscience to tell the whole truth, and that he firmly believed that a false oath involved a future punishment. The Recorder then spoke to him as follows: I want you to put your hand on that Bible which you have so often read, and take an oath that you are in no way cognizant, in no way as a free agent or have any knowledge or connivance with your assailants. Whittaker took the Bible, looked his questioner squarely in the face, and was asked do you take that oath. He replied clearly and firmly, "I do, sir." His testimony afterwards was short. When two barbers who were attached to the post were sworn in regard to the cutting of his hair, their evidence going to show that a small pair of scissors found in his room could not have cut his hair as it is now cut. When these witnesses finished, at the suggestion of Whittaker's counsel, the latter withdrew, and then cadet Geo. Barnett of the first class was called to the witness stand.

WEST POINT, April 10.—Cadet Whitaker in his examination after detailing circumstances of alleged outrage as was first told by him when was asked what had been his personal feelings within a month as to the probability of his graduating, he replied, "I always felt that I would get through." He said that he never had a special cause for a discouragement before this occurred. He was asked if he had ever written any gloomy letters to his friends or others. He said that he wrote a gloomy letter to his mother about her affairs preventing him from graduating, he told her unless he was sure he could find some way to pay her rent he would resign. He wrote another letter to a certain party, saying that if he could not raise that money for his mother that he would resign. When he received a letter in reply, tendering him money as loan if he would pay it back after he graduated, he accepted the offer and the first installment came soon after, but this was weeks before the outrage occurred. His endeavor was made to connect him familiar with a colored boot black of the Academy, but he testified that his last visit to that persons family, was over a year ago. He testified that he had no reasons to suppose that there were no prejudices in the minds of his instructors against him, and that he has a fair chance of getting through as far as they are concerned, but feel that his social isolation has had no effect on him as far as his studies are concerned. When some of the pieces of the belt with which he had been tied were shown witness, it was revealed that one piece contained eyelets which none but the officers contained, and Whitaker had never been an officer. His counsel deemed this important. He also denied the ownership of the black neck tie found in his room.

GERMANS IN COUNCIL.

BERLIN, April 10th.—In Reichstag yesterday debate began on second reading on the army bill. Herr Stauffenburg proposed restrict term of operation of bill to 3 years but motion rejected by vote of 180 to 101, first and second paragraphs fixing the peace and strength of the army until March 31st 1888, at 42.770 men was adopted, yeas 186—nays 96.

Minister of war declared the bill owed its origin not only to the present political situation but to reasons of lasting character, and that permanent military Budget alone could give any stability and confidence. Herr Rickert, National Liberal, said that the strengthening of the army was of the highest importance to the nation and must not be made a party question now. He declared that the party existed in Germany which wished to weaken the defensive power of a fatherland, but it was the desire of the whole nation to uphold with a mighty hand the possessions which Germany had acquired and to maintain peace.

An Eloquent Passage.

The following is from the pen of the late George D. Prentice: It cannot be that earth is man's only abiding place It cannot be that our life is a mere bubble cast up by the eternity to float a moment on its waves and then sink into nothingness. Else why is it that the glorious aspirations which leap like angels from the temple of our hearts, are forever wandering unsatisfied? Why is it that the stars that hold their festival around the midnight throne are set above the grasp of our limited faculties, forever mocking us with their unapproachable glory? And, finally, why is it that bright forms of human beauty presented to our view are taken from us, leaving the thousand streams of our affections to flow back in Alpine torrents upon our hearts? There is a realm where the rainbow never fades, where the stars will be spread out before us like the islands that slumber in the ocean; and where the beautiful beings which pass before us like shadows will stay in our presence forever.

Meeting of the Board of Alderman.

A meeting of the board was held Friday night, Mayor Manly, presided.

The clerk was instructed to issue an order on the Treasurer for $800—and to execute a note due Jan. 8th, '81 for $800 in favor of the Springfield Gas Machine Co., to cover the balance due them by the city in full to date.

A judgment against the city in favor of Ramsey & Co. for $270., was also ordered to be paid.

The Board selected the following polling places for the election on the 3rd prox.

1st. Ward Baptist Grove.
2nd. " Jenkins Shop.
3rd. " Court House.
4th. " Dunston's Shop.
5th. " Crowders Store.

The question as to whether guano should be allowed to be received in the city was postponed until the next meeting.

It was the opinion of the Board that certain private sewers in the northern end of the city were nuisances and the owners of the same were ordered to either abate the nuisance or make other arrangements.

The remarks of the Alderman were generally pertinent and well considered. The lack of space only prevents a full report of the same.

The Board adjourned at 10:30 P. M., without any personal feeling or unpleasant demonstrations of any character.

Eugenie's Sad Voyage.

London Standard.

The Empress Eugenie left Southampton yesterday for Zululand. On alighting from her carriage the Empress, who was dressed in deep mourning, was presented with a large bouquet of violets by Sir Benjamin Phillips, whose arm she then took, and passing along the carpeted way was conducted on board of the steamer Alexandria, lying at the same quay whence some years ago the Empress embarked on a visit to her mother in the Peninsula. As she passed along the wharves, all present uncovered, and the Empress, courteously bowing her acknowledgments, was evidently deeply moved by these attentions. The Alexandria at once left the docks, and was followed by the steamer Sovereign, taking the ordinary passengers and their impediments. Three large cabins on the port side have been set apart and specially prepared for the Empress's use. The first opens from the main saloon, and forms a private boudoir, elegantly furnished. The walls are panelled in Japanese satin of a light green, relieved by borders of the same material of a darker hue, with a cornice pricked out with gilt studs. Beyond this is the sleeping apartment, in which are beds for the Empress and her maid, and this opens into a lavatory and bath room The main fittings are of mahogany, maple, rosewood, and electro-silver. The Empress on arriving on board went at once to her cabin, and having partaken of a light luncheon was joined by her friends, her leave-takings being of a most affectionate kind. She gave to M. Uhlman her portrait, bearing her autograph, signed in his presence. The imperial suite consist of the Hon. Mrs. Ronald Campbell, a young widow, who is going out to endeavor to find the grave of her husband, who was Sir Evelyn Wood's aide-de-camp, and was shot through the head on the Zobane Mountain; Sir Evelyn Wood, who will accompany the Empress at the request of the Queen; the Marquis de Bassano Dr. Scott, who was present when the body was found, and embalmed the remains; Lieutenant Slade, an artillery officer, who was an intimate friend of the late Prince Imperial; three menservants and two female servants. Captain Biggs, who was attached to the Prince Imperial's battery, has also set for Durban to make arrangements for the Empress's journey up the country.

When the bell of the steamship was rung to clear the vessel of strangers, the Empress came on deck, and standing at the head of the gangway ladder with the Marquis de Bassano, kissed her hands to her friends, who were now on board the Alexandra. She remained here as the small steamer got further and further away, and one of the last objects made out from the Alexandra's deck was a black figure waving a white pocket handkerchief, in which now and again her face was buried.

Why is it.

That cheap, adulterated baking powders are warranted equal to Dr. Price's, when it is known that Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is the purest and healthiest made? It is because the adulterated kinds are bought for less and give a better profit.

THE CHINESE ARMY.

HOW IT IS MADE UP, ARMED AND STATIONED.

The Army has Depreciated Greatly During the Past Year or So.

New York Herald.

The only Chinese troops that can in any degree be regarded as capable of mobilization and fighting are those stationed at Tientsin, Canton, Foochow and Shanghai. Their number is hardly greater than 50,000. A year ago, when the Kahjar question was under discussion, this force was estimated at 130,000, but engagements and losses of all kinds have reduced them largely, and subsequently recruiting in Shansi, Sze-chuen, Hunan and Hupeh have not been very favorable.

In the guard of Pekin the infantry consists of four battalions of 875 men each, who were, up to a short time ago, armed with muzzle-loaders, and partly exercised according to the principles of European tactics, 400 men being sent to Tientsin to be drilled there by foreign instructors with the ultimate object of communicating the knowledge thus gained to their comrades in the capital, of one battalion of cadets, 500 strong, carrying bows, arrows, spears and various other old Chinese weapons; of a battalion of 500 with small matchlocks; of two battalions of 500 men each, armed with long matchlocks called gingals, of which every two men receive one "this enormous weapon being six feet long, and when about to be discharged laid on the shoulder of the front man and fired by the second); of a corps of 1200 men, armed with swords and shields, and of one of 200 men, bearing Chinese weapons, who form the body guard of the first imperial prince.

The cavalry is composed of two divisions of 1000 men each, armed with carbines and cimeshpers, and of three squadrons bearing matchlocks. The artillery has twenty-four Russian field pieces with only two horses and six men to each. There are besides 1000 artillerymen, who have small iron cannon, with calibres varying from four ounces to a pound, which are fired from an embankment or wall. Outside Pekin, chiefly in the neighborhood of the summer palace, there are two battalions of infantry, of 875 men each, armed with Russian muzzle loaders, 1000 men with large matchlocks, 2000 with matchlocks and short swords, one battery with 125 men. Hence the troops in and around Pekin amount to about 10,250 infantry, 5,000 cavalry and 1,750 artillery, with twenty-three field guns—or, in all 17,500 men.

At the head of the whole army is the ministry of war, which especially deals with the troops of the guard; for it is no part of its duty to superintend the banermen and other troops in Pekin and the Summer Palace. Its power over the provincial army, also, is almost entirely nominal. The minister is a civilian, and so, as a rule, are his chief assistans. He receives ordinary reports from all commanding officers of the land and sea forces, from the Governors General and Governors in their capacity of military authorities, from the officials responsible for the transport of grain and the safety of embankments and from those who are intrusted with the ruling of the nomad and only half subjugated tribes.

FIGHTING FOR CUBA.

Three Expeditions Already Successfully Landed on the Island.

Philadelphia Telegraph.

The point of departure of the Cuban expedition, reported by the Spanish authorities to have been organized in this county, still remains a mystery. It is, however, believed by the Spanish officials that the men have already sailed on one of the regular steamers to the West Indies. The Washington authorities, when informed of the scheme, took measures to suppress it, if possible. The recruits assembled at a small New Jersey village, and probably intended to sail for Cuba from Lewes, Del., but the port of sailing was afterwards changed. The Spanish Consul General is reserved about the matter, and will give no information. A Cuban gentleman, at present residing in New York, who is intimately connected with the organization of Cuban patriots, said last evening that it would manifestly be impolitic to disclose anything concerning the plans of his countrymen. He was free to say, however, that the hope of freedom for Cuba had not been abandoned, and that fresh plans were being matured. Three expeditions have already been sent out, and the leaders and their followers have established themselves in different parts of the island, where they are enlisting recruit and organization a government. This gentleman gave the assurance that no expedition would be started from the United States. The Cubans believed, he said, that they have the popular sympathy of this country. They are, therefore, adverse to doing anything that might compel the government to interfere with them On this account, no more expeditions will be likely to start from any point in the United States.

A Flurry in Iron.

Philadelphia Record.

Iron manufacturers in this city profess extreme satisfaction at the action of the Glendon Iron Company in reducing the price of gray forged iron from $40 to $30 per ton. Some of the raw iron men are disposed to condemn the reduction, but as the operators in the Lehigh region and other sections have joined hands with the Glendon Company, it is calculated that a general reduction to the new raises is only a question of a few days. The customers of the Glendon are especially in high feather, as when they gave their orders three months in advance they were subject to the market price at the time of delivery. Thus they will participate in all the benefit of the present reduction.

Manufacturers say that the change in price was a matter of necessity to keep English iron out of the market. In January the price was but $28 per ton, and when the figure was put in March, sales began to rapidly decrease. Plate and rail manufacturers complained that they could not continue operations at profitable figures, and railroad men postponed their orders for rails until a more convenient season. The English iron began to pour in, and it was found that the Britishers, after paying all expenses, including freight and $7 for the duty, could land their produce on our wharves and undersell our own manufacturers. All these causes combined to bring about the reduction.

Mr. James M. Swank, Secretary of the Iron and Steel Association, says that at present the iron market is dull and heavy. The manufacturers complain of the scarcity of orders and inability to maintain the card price In his opinion, although he does not speak officially, a break in the card will shortly take place. He accounts for this condition of affairs on the ground that the production has exceeded the demand. The production during the past two months has been the most remarkable thing known to the trade. Two things have tended to force the price beyond a point which the needs of consumers justified. These were speculation and excitement. When iron began to advance thousands of pounds were bought by men who had the means at hand, thus creating a fictitious demand. This iron, which was withheld from the consumers, is now being unloaded, and thus the the mills are without orders. Again, manufacturers became excited with the advance, and began bidding against each other for ores, thus sending the market up.

Mr. Swank does not believe that the iron interest is in a bad way. The activity in railroad interests and the increased demand for structural iron will, he thinks, be sufficient to make the interests healthy and prosperous for years to come. With prices at fair figures business will move to the satisfaction of manufacturers. In brief, he believes, and those in the trade agree with him, that the era of artificial prices is nearly at its end, and that the present year will be the most prosperous which the trade has known.

Roasted by the by the Sun.

London Telegraph.

Dr. Schoinworth, in a lecture which he recently delivered at the Berlin Geographical Society on the subject of his latest explorations in Central Africa, gave his hearers a thrilling account of the mode in which capital punishment is inflicted upon criminals by the al-Quadjis, a small tributary off shoot of the great and powerful Djour people. The male factor condemned to die is bound to a post firmly driver into the ground in some open place where no trees afford a shade, and is there slowly roasted to death—not by any artificial means involving a waste of fuel, but by the natural heat of the sun's rays as they reach our earth in its equatorial regions. To protract his sufferings and to avert his too speedy end by sun stroke, the ingenious al-Quadjis cover their erring compatriot's head with fresh green leaves, which effectually shield his brain from Phoebus' darts No such protection is, however, accorded to his body, which gradually dries up, shrinks together, and ultimately becomes carbonized. One chance of salvation is open to the roasting man, while as yet he is not completely "done to death." If a cloud pass between the sun and his fiery torment, he is at once set loose from his post and becomes the object of popular reverence, as a mighty magician in whose behalf the supernatural powers have deigned directly to intervene But clouds seldom interfere with the administration of justice on the days chosen for public executions by the al-Quadjis authorities; at least, that appears to be Dr. Schweinfurth's experience of African weather as far as it bears upon the judicial roasting of malefactors.

Cornelius Vanderbilt's Fund

The Supreme Court of New York city has rendered a decision affirming the order of Justice Donohue refusing to grant the application of Cornelius J. Vanderbilt to have a person appointed in place of Wm. H. Vanderbilt as trustee of a fund of about $400,000, which was created by Wm. H. Vanderbilt May 12, 1879, soon after the withdrawal of the contest of Commodore Vanderbilt's will. The court says that to prevent Cornelius Vanderbilt against his own possible rashness or folly was the judicious purpose of the trust, and to compel its do or, almost immediately after its creation, to break it up and substitute for it the exposure and vicissitudes of business would be something that no court having power, coupled with common sense, would consent to do. It seems almost incredible that counsel could be found capable of advising such an application, which deserved "severe rebuke." Hon. Scott Lord was attorney for Cornelius Vanderbilt.

New Orleans Women.

New Orleans Picayune.

The New Orleans woman proper is a Gallic-American, or rather an American Gaul. She may never have been out of the country, or even out of the State; but for all that, she is an alien to the Republic in the sense that she has little knowledge of it and less care for it and its affairs. If Creole, or of Creole descent or affinity, she reads French newspapers, has French habits and opinions, and is essentially French in mind and manner. She talks English, though she thinks in French; she is an inhabitant of the United States, but a citizen of Louisiana, especially of its metropolis, most of her grand outings being to adjacent parishes. Once in a while she may go to St. Louis, or Mobile, or Charleston, or New York, but if she does it is a memorable event, and she regards it as a Chicagoan, Bostonian or New Yorker would regard the circumnavigation of the globe, a journey to the interior of Afghanistan, or the heart of Africa. Should the New Orleans woman be young, especially should she be unmarried, she may be very graceful, though rarely slender in her spring and summer stocks. The opening of new goods can be seen on every hand. Trade is good and all seem to be progressing finely. I notice the late reduction in the prices of the cotton market has wrought a considerable change in the countenence of quite a number of the large cotton planters of this section who have made ample preparation for the planting of a large cotton crop. The stir in politics has not as yet aroused our people sufficiently for them to express their preference for Governer. Mr. Henry Harris of Pitt county has been visiting here this week. Your correspondent had a short trip to Nash county a few days since and noticed while there the rapid progress in the farming operation of that county. The cleaning of new fields and moving out fences seem to have been the order of the day the past winter. They are also making preparations for a heavy crop of cotton.

Wheat is looking very promising at present and as there was more seeded here last fall than usual, they are looking forward with bright prospects of a liberal harvest. Eugenie's Fortune.

The Empress Eugenie's large fortune will not, it is said, go to the Bonapartes. Her heir is to be the Duc de Albe, her nephew, the son of her only sister. The Empress has been accompanied to South Africa by two English ladies, Mrs. Ronald Campbell and Lady Wood. Her voyage has been made remarkably comfortable, three large cabins having been so altered as to form a suite, the first—a sitting-room—with lounges, Vesport and whatnots; the second, a bed room; the third, a bath room, wonderfully luxurious for board ship; the whole suite lined with charming pale green satin, like silken tapestry, and paneled in places with mirrors.

Let us Pull Together.

Warren News.

Now that the Western Railroad is remove from our State politics as a party question, it behooves the press and the people to unite and advocate and demand the nomination of pure, upright, able men for the various State officers to be elected next Fall. The State must be carried for the National Democratic nominee and it will never do for the State Government to pass again out of the hands of her own people. The railroad question was settled without any opening being left for the Republican party to make political capital, and unless the Democrats allow themselves to be split into factions upon other questions, we have no fear of the result. North Carolina has entered upon an era of great prosperity; already, we see the symptoms of the great flood tide that will in a few years sweep over her. We have all the advantages of any Southern States, we have but few of the drawbacks possessed by the most of them. Let us pull together for the good of the State, and work out our manifest destiny in a [illegible] of glory!

OUR COUNTRY LETTERS.

FROM THE DIFFERENT PORTIONS OF THE STATE.

The town of Marshall.—The Granville Hail Storm.—A Cotton Factory for Franklin.

Correspondence of the News.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April, 5th, 1880.—Sir: I have just returned from a trip to Marshall court, my first visit to the place, the place about which so many amusing incidents are told with regard to its back streets, and about which so many warnings are given to travelers, not to venture from main street for fear that they will become confused by the number and yet lost.

Marshall is a little town on the bank of the French Broad 21 miles below Asheville, and the county-seat of Madison county. It is built on a narrow neck of land from 75 to 100 yards wide, with the river on one side, and a mountain on the other, with an angle of elevation I should say, of at least 45°. Just in front of the town the river forms an island which some years ago, was dotted with houses but when the freshet of 1876 came, it swept many of those houses away, and showed to their occupants that it was a place not suited to habitation, and hence has been deserted.

Marshall is a place of considerable trade, especially in the tobacco line, and a warehouse which is a very creditable one, has lately been built. All along the road from Asheville to Marshall we see great preparations being made for the coming tobacco crop.

Hill sides are being cleared and prepared for the cultivation of the weed which it seems would be too rough to cultivate in any way. The road is so rough that travellers in passing over it very often experience a kind of vertigo, something like sea sickness, but this trouble the people of Madison and all others, hope soon to get rid of through the proposition of Mr. Best.

The criminal docket of Madison contained several cases for larceny, and for this crime five were convicted and sentenced to the Penitentiary.

The most celebrated case on docket was the case of State vs. Volny and Chauney D Cushing for arson, the history of the case I am not well enough acquainted with to comment on, further than that they were so much as warranted the court in binding them in a bond of five thousand dollars each, for their personal appearance at the next term of the court.

FRANKLINTON, N. C., April 8, 1880.

Men who have capital could invest it to great advantage in the proposed cotton factory here. That there is money in it one fact is sufficient to substantiate, for instance, just take a peep at the large factories on Fall River, Mass. where thousands of people are given employment, and hundreds of thousands of dollars are annually made by the manufacturers, and all this from Southern cotton. Lets say freight on 450 lbs bag of cotton from here to Boston or New York is $5.00, its return will be as much. Drayage, commission etc., will doubtless amount to $2 00 on the bag. Now this is a considerable item to save on one bag of cotton. If the Northern manufacturers can stand this and make money by selling cloth at from five to six and seven cent per yard. Why should not a Southern manufacturer, right in the midst of a cotton growing country, where nearly all this expense would be curtailed and make money likewise In manufacturing domestic cloths the manufacturer makes his goods as light as possible, say from two to three and four ounces to the yard. A 450 lb. bag of cotton would make 3600 yards of cloth at 2 ounces to the yard which at 5 cents per yard would bring $180.00. Forty bushels of seed sowed by using the Clement attachment would equal at least $4 00 more making $184.00 for one bag of cotton which at 12½ cents per pound, would bring the producer $56.25. The difference between this and $184.00 is $127.25 Now say the cash of manufacturing one bag of cloth is $40.00, it will leave a profit to the manufacturer of $87.75 which looks like it would pay for handling one bale of cotton. There are many large and thriving manufacturing establishments built up North from the working of this staple and we don't see any reason why the people here where the staple is raised should not do equally as well if not better and at less cost. Come down with your stamps gentlemen, erect the factory here and you will soon agree with the writer.

"He who does good with his money and pelf,
Is a help to his neighbor as well as himself."

Perry was on the look out for Allen but Allen took him by surprise in the darkness, for when he knocked at the door and called for it to be opened Perry came out at the other like a [illegible] but as he [illegible] on the [illegible] Champion made for him and Allen joined in the pursuit, and the race lasted until 7½ a. m., when they overhauled Perry near Jonathan Jenkin's. In his devious meanderings he ran not less than eight miles. Six dollars or twenty days in jail. Perry says that here after he will never again disregard an overseer's notice.

Last week Dr. W. W. Greene purchased in Oxford at public sale, N. G. Whitfield's mill tract of land for $2.0. It consists of 30 acres, corn, wheat and saw mills.

Two terrific hail storms this week. One came last Sunday evening, and was so violent in both wind and hail, that several parties returning home from evening services at Westley's Chapel were seriously injured. Umbrellas were riddled with hailstone and blown into shreds as if they had been paper. The second storm of wind, rain and hail, came last Tuesday morning. Fences were blown down, trees torn up by the roots by the wind, and glass was knocked out of windows, shingles bursted from the roofs of houses by hailstones the size of goose eggs, which seemed to strike with as much force as if hurled from some one's hand. The ground was covered thick with the nail, and after the storm had ceased, barrels of it had gathered by the force of the water in low places, and great quantities of it still remain in heaps. The surging billows of Middle Creek, rumpled one of the ocean, for full half an hour after the storm abated, and the waters went with such force that they burst a hollow popular that stood on the brink in a bend of the creek, and threw several ill fated coons out to the mercy of the turbid waters The tree was very large, and lies end down stream, while it had an equally large hollow which opened near the ground where the water entered and rushed upward with such force as to burst and tear down the tree, the ancient home of the coons. Several parties witnessed it, as it happened while the water was rising immediately after the storm ceased. Two of the coons were washed ashore dead. Mr. W. Clay and his foreman William Bess, Esq., had a serious difficulty yesterday morning.

Clay had placed Bess in charge of several negroes at a plantation, and made it a custom to go to the plantation about one hour before day to watch Bess's earliest movements. Some of the hands discovered Clay's movements and told Bess of it So yesterday morning Bess placed himself in position to await the arrival of Mr. Clay and when he did arrive, Mr. Bess collared him with one hand and horsewhipped him nearly to death with the other. Clay is reported quite feeble. J. W. W.

Deaths.

Tarboro Southerner.

On the night of 2nd April, Mr. John W. Pippen died, in the 47th year of his age, at his brother's, J. S Pippen, in this county. He was never married, was popular with his associates and belonged to a large, very respectable and influential family. He was a brother of W. M, Pippen, Esq., Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners.

On the evening of 2nd, Mr. Nathan Matthewson received a telegram from Bastrop, Texas, stating that his son, Dr. John Matthewson, who lived there had died on 1st inst. He was about 30 years old, a native of this county and removed to Texas a few years since. He is the last male of the family now in the South and was a brother of Mrs. R. M. Furman.

The Centennial Graded School.

Dr. D. W. C. Benbow, of Greensboro, who was in Raleigh last week, in a letter to the Patriot, gives a pleasant account of a visit which Dr. Cyrus P. Mendenhall and himself paid our graded school. Among other things he says. "I was so delighted and am so ill able to tell you half of what I saw that I had better stop and suggest that all friends of education who visit Raleigh cannot amuse and entertain themselves better than by calling upon Capt. Dugger and witnessing the workings of one of the best graded schools in North Carolina. I would like to call attention especially to Mrs. McDonald's room. She certainly is the right woman in the right place."

Mrs. McD., is the wife of our esteemed townsman, Col. John A. McDonald and we can most heartily endorse the sentiments expressed in the Doctor's letter, and hope that she may always be retained as a teacher in this school. Her impartiality and competency are acknowledged by all who have children at the school.

WASHINGTON.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS OF THE 46TH CONGRESS.

The Kellogg-Spofford case Still on the Tapis.—Staning of Cadet Whittaker at West Point.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Democratic Senators met in Caucus at half past ten o'clock this morning and remained in session until two o'clock p. m. A question of taking up the Spofford Kellogg case was the subject under consideration, and a discussion continued with a good deal of animation and spirit. Bayard, Lamar, Garland, Kerman, and others, spoke against the present consideration of the Kellogg case, while Saulsbury, Hill, Vance and Jonas again insisted that it ought to be brought before the Senate for action without delay. Arguments pro and con were much the same as those of yesterday and the day before, except that even more determination was shown to-day by advocates of immediate action. It was also openly suggested that the proposition to unseat Kellogg and seat Spofford, could not be adopted because there were Democratic Senators who would vote against it. Hill said "very well," let them vote against it. The committee had done its duty, and it now remained for the Senate to perform its duty, no matter what the vote might be. He insisted upon the case being disposed of, and in regard to its possible effect upon the Presidential election, said that it ought not to deter the Senate from disposing of the case. Finally a resolution was adapted by a majority of three, providing that the Geneva award bill shall be taken up first, and shall be considered from day to day until disposed of, and that then the chairman of elections Committe may call up the Kellogg case unless in meantime the Democratic Caucus shall decide otherwise. The Caucus this morning was not fully attended and it was understood that another shall be held before the final disposition of the Geneva award bill to pass finally upon the question of the consideration of the Kellogg case. This was sort of a compromise and it was consented to in the hope of bringing about a better feeling on the question than now exists. It is the understanding that the final decision shall be made by a full vote of all the Democratic Senators, if it can be obtained.

The Senate Committee on the Rail Roads in consequence of the Democratic caucus to day postponed their intended hearing of the argument on the Texas Pacific Bill until Thursday.

HOUSE.

On motion of Mr. Wood the House concurred in the Senate resolution providing for the appointment of two members of the Senate Finance Committee, and the House the Ways and Means Committee as a joint committee to take into consideration the alleged loss of the revenue arising from an evasion of the tax on cigars and other articles subject to excise duty, and what remedy can be provided by law. The House then having dispensed with the morning hour at 2:35, went into a Committee of the Whole, with springer in the chair, on the army appropriation bill, and a general debate was commenced upon the amendment prohibiting the use of troops at the polls as a police force.

Sparks opened the discussion. He called the attention of the House to the fact that this identical clause had already been added to the appropriation bill. It made prohibition on the use of contingency that the appropriation should not apply if the army were used in a certain way. He had understood that great leaders on the other side had acceded to the amendment—the vote upon the amendment had shown that but 12 republicans had voted against it. He confessed that the amendment did not meet his views and that this same cowardly amendment did not come up to that standard of legislation on the subject that he would have wished and if he had power he would use it on something much stronger than this, and unyieldingly insists upon its adoption. He would wipe up this unamerican republican undemocratic villainous statute—which owed its existence to the inspiration of fanaticism and to era of hate. Conger, will gentlemanly state on what side hate and fanaticism was. (Sparks, not noticing the question) it disgraces the statute book and insults sovereign people of this country with this, I am done, Conger! Does the gentlemen intend to answer where fanaticism was. (Sparks. I am not answering questions, sarcastically, Conger, I will venture to say that gentleman may answer without being in danger of being shot on the spot. General debate was continued by Howley, of Conn., who twitted the Democratic party upon their evident intention not to participate in the debate—sarcastically inquiring whether it was afraid that it would bring about the nomination and election of Gen. Grant, or whether the sterorian tones of the whisperer of Grammercy park and had prohibited the discussion. Robeson, N. J. followed with strong speech in opposition to the amendment contending that it meant that military powers should not be subordinate to civil power. Keifer, McCoid, Haskell and Frye also spoke against the clause and all of the gentlemen endeavored to draw the Democrats into debate but they remained silent. Conger railed at the Democrats, for what he called their cowardice, their paralysis, their dumbness, and their unwillingness to debate the pending question without action. The Committee arose and at 5.10 adjourned.

The following story points its own moral.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 24th, 1880.

The undersigned certifies that he held for collection for account of John Day, of

DAILY NEWS

SUNDAY, APRIL 11, 1880.

GEO. C JORDAN, Editor and Propr.

JOHN SHERMAN'S name is in the list of rich delinquent tax payers in the District of Columbia. Mr. Sherman, although a poor farmer who has to repair his own fences, is down in this list as owner of twenty very valuable pieces of Washington property. During the last few years, on a salary of $8,000, he has become a large property owner.

THE Manhatten Elevated Railroad Company, which operates the New York elevated roads under leases, is not earning enough to pay the necessary ten per cent, dividends guaranteed under those leases, and which is indispensable to their continuance. It is believed generally, therefore, that the lease must be annulled, and that the roads will revert to the original companies.

The morning sky this month will be peculiarly brilliant, owing to the presence of four of the principal planets, Jupiter, Saturn, Venus and Mercury, which will be all crowded together in the constellation Pisces. Saturn has not yet joined the others, but he will pass from the evening to the morning sky to-day. This juxtaposition of so many planets will lead to a series of interesting conjunctions, some of which will be quite close. On the 15th Mercury and Venus will pass near one another, and on the 16th Venus and Jupiter will be in conjunction.

THE Richmond Commerwealth says "There have been many persons who have been led to believe that as Judge Field was put into the Supreme Court by Mr. Lincoln in 1863, he was therefore a Republican then. There was never a greater mistake than this made. Judge Field has always been an old time Andrew Jackson Democrat of the straightest sect. We will mention, however, in addition to what is said, that Judge Field was elected to the bench of the Supreme Court of California in 1857, when a Republican or Whig had about as much chance to be elected to an office in California as a mouse would have to overthrow St. Paul's steeple. In 1865 the vote of California for President was: For the Democratic nominee, 53,365; for the Republican, 20,691; for the Whig. 36,135. We would have liked to see a Whig or a Republican elected to the Supreme Bench of California in 1857."

THE proposed international convention of persons engaged in the grain-milling interest, called by the millers of the West and Northwest to assemble at Cincinnati May 30, promises to be largely attended, and to present a very general representation of that important industry. A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, writing from Cincinnati, says, somewhat enthusiastically: "With everybody in this country, and, indeed, throughout the civilized world, at all connected with the grain and flour interests, this convention and this exhibition will be the event of a life. time. Provisions has been made for the entertainment of over 50,000 millers and manufacturers from this country, while between 1,500 and 2,000 Europeans engaged in the milling interest have signified their intention of being present." The New York Commercial Bulletin learns that every State in the Union is to be represented in an elaborate display of both wheat and flour. Manufacturers and grain-raisers from Buda-Pesth and Berlin, and England, Switzerland and from along the Danube are also expected to be on hand, as also many Russians and parties from the region of the Rhine. "Even the owners of the Egyptian granaries will send representatives to Cincinnati to learn of American industries and American ingenuity. Ten complete flouring-mills will be set up in the exposition buildings, and two of them will be from Europe."

Mr Tilden and the Election Cases.

A reporter of the New York Sun called on Hon. Samuel J. Tilden, Wednesday, and inquired whether Mr. Springer was correct in his belief that Mr. Finley had no authority to represent Mr. Tilden in respect to the Donnelly election case or to make any communication in behalf of Mr. Tilden respecting it to Mr. Springer. Said Mr. Tilden; "Mr. Springer was perfectly right. Mr. Finley had no pretense of authority to represent Mr. Tilden in that matter or in anything else. Mr. Tilden has in no way whatever, directly or indirectly, interfered with any election case before the commitee. He has never expressed any wish to any human being concerning Donnelly case. He is not and has not been in any communication with Mr. Finley. Mr. Springer, knew perfectly well that if Mr. Tilden had any communication to make to him on that or any other subject he would have done so directly, as he has had plenty of opportunities to do so. Mr. Tilden has several times recently had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Springer, but on no occasion did Mr. Tilden say a word about any election case pend ng before the House of Represenatives."

Mr. Seymour Positively Declines.
Baltimore Sun.

The Cincinnati Enquirer yesterday published an interview with Mr. Theodore Cook, a leading Democrat of that city, who has just returned from a visit to ex-Governor Seymour, of New York, and Mr. Cook, who is an old personel friend of ex-Governor Seymour, speaks authoritatively touching his position in regard to the Presidential candidacy. He says that Mr. Seymour is very much annoyed at the refusal of the press and the people to accept his statements that he will not be a candidate in any circumstances. He is very anxious for the success of the party this year, and believes that with any good man who could entirely unite it the party will succed, but he says that he realizes that he is not that man. Even if he were, his health and age would not permit him to accept a nomination. Though apparently in good health while living quietly at home, Mr. Seymour says that he is really unable to endure any excitement, physical or mental, and that his only lease of life depends on a strict avoidance of all such excitement. He said to Mr. Cook in the plainest of terms: "In no circumstances, I assure you, could I become a candidate, even if I thought the good of the party demanded it."

Cuticura

REMEDISE

Have Achieved the most noted success of any Medicines of Modern Times.

Messrs. Weeks & Potter have never doubted the specific properties of Cuticura, Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Soap, for the speedy, permanent, and economical cure of Humors of the Blood, Skin and Scalp. They are however, astonished at their universal success; for it was to be expected that in the hands of some they would fail solely from spasmodic or ignorant use of them.

They are enabled to say without fear of contradiction that no remedies ever achieved in the short space of one year the number of wonderful cures performed by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

SALT RHEUM,

Covering the Body for Ten Years. Permanently Cured.

LAW OFFICE OF CHAS. HOUGHTON,
17 Congress Street, Boston, Feb 25, 1878.

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen.—I feel it a duty to inform you, and through you all who are interested to know the fact, that a most disagreeable and obstinate case Salt Rheum or Eczema, which has been under my personal observation from its first appearance to the present time,—about ten (10) years,—covering the greater portion of the patient's body, and illustrated with its peculiar irritating and itching scab, and to which all the known methods of treating such disease had been applied without benefit, has completely disappeared, leaving a clean and healthy skin, under a few days of profuse application of CUTICURA.

I can and do heartily advise all similarly afflicted to try the remedy which has been so effectual in this case.

Very truly yours,
CHAS. HOUGHTON.

Liver Complaint.

And Dyspepsia Treated by the Resolvent, Gains 5 1-2 pounds on One Bottle.

GENTLEMEN,—I have had Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, with running sores on the side of my neck, for ten years. Doctors did no good. I have been speeding or eight years and it did me no good. Everything I ate distressed me. I got reduced from 150 to 132 pounds. At last I tried the RESOLVENT and it helped me right off, and on one bottle I gained five and one-half pounds. It is doing the business, and I am going on it strong. Yours truly,

JOHN H. ROY
414 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill., Nov. 15, 1878

This most excellent remedy is becoming more popular with our people every day. It is one of the few medicines that improves on acquaintance—the more one knows of it, the more its virtues are appreciated. Everybody who has given it a fair trial, speak well of it. Our druggists sell large quantities of it. People are not afraid to use a medicine that they know to be efficient for their ailments, and at the same time harmless in its nature. Read what is so aptly said of it, in another column of this paper. Truth is mighty and will prevail.

Great News.

It is great news indeed that there is at last a remedy (Warner's Safe Nervine) which will relieve all kinds of pain and give rest and sleep without injury to the system. The discovrer of this remedy is considered the most skillful nerve doctor in the world.

I recommended and used with my patients Colden's Liebig's Liquid Extract of Beef and Tonic Invigorator, and I find it exceedingly beneficial in consumption, debility, weakness, febrile and nervous diseases, and a reliable nutritive tonic. Sold by WILLIAMS & HAYWOOD.

Poverty and Distress.

That poverty which produces the greatest distress is not of the purse but of the blood. Deprived of its richness, it becomes scant and watery, a condition termed anæmia in medical writings. Given this condition, and scrofulous swellings and sores, general and nervous debility, loss of flesh and appetite, weak lungs, throat diseases and consumption, are among the common results. Therefore, if you are a sufferer from this, poor blood, do not hesitate, but employ Golden Medical Discovery which enriches the blood and radically cures those affections by striking at the root of the evil and removing the cause.

For all bronchial, throat, and lung affections, severe lingering cough, weak lungs, consumption in its early stages, asthma and kindred affections, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the soverign remedy, and has out-rivaled all its competitors. It is harmless in any condition of the system, yet powerful to cure. Druggists sell it.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.

Rev. Sylvanus Cobb thus writes in the Boston Christian Freeman—We would by no means recommend any kind of medicine which we did not know to be good—particularly for infants. But of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge; in our own family it has proved a blessing indeed, by giving an infant troubled with colic pains, quiet sleep, and the parents unbroken rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings. Here is an article which works to perfection, and which is harmless; for the sleep which it affords the infant is perfectly natural, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button."

And during the process of teething, its value is incalculable. We have frequently heard mothers say that they would not be without it from the birth of the child till it had finished with the teething siege, on any consideration whatever. Sold by all druggists. 25 cents a bottle.

RALEIGH MACHINERY AGENCY

WAYNE ALCOTT,

Manager

RALEIGH, N. C.

It gives us pleasure to state we have just completed arrangements for handling the Machinery of the established and well known Southern manufacturers, JOHN W. CALDWELL & CO., of Richmond, Va.

Our specialty from this house will be their

"LITTLE GIANT" HYDRAULIC COTTON PRESS

ITS GREAT POWER.—With it one man can press a bale of cotton of from 400 to 600 pounds in from 6 to 8 minutes' time, and do it with ease.

ITS QUICKNESS.—A man can press a bale in from 6 to 8 minutes' time, and in 1 minute after, the bale is out, the press is ready for the next.

ITS DURABILITY.—There is neither grinding or rubbing in friction its operation, as in the screw press; it is not liable to wear out for want of oil or attention.

ITS SIMPLICITY and the ease which it is operated by ordinary plantation hands; the ease and speed with which it is put in position for receiving cotton for the next bale, after one has been turned out—the operation consisting in simply turning a cock, which allows the water to flow back to the tub or tank and the bottom or no lower block to sink down to its position for receiving the cotton for packing the next bale. A half barrel of water will pack many bales.

ECONOMY OF SPACE. It takes but a small amount of space for its working—8 x 10 feet being abundant room for it to work in

ITS TOTAL INDEPENDENCE OF ALL SURROUNDING OBJECTS—requiring neither bracing nor expensive founda ons, working immediately under the floor of the gin or in the open field.

IT IS THE ONLY PRESS within our knowledge with which one man or boy can press a bale of ordinary size from 400 to 600 pounds; and it is equally adapted to steam, water or horse-power, but for ordinary plantation use we have not found any one who considered it desirable to use power, as the packing is so easily and quickly done by hand, and also great saving of trouble and expense.

THE CONVENIENCE with which cotton can be put into the box as here is no obstruction above or about the top of the box to interfere with the operation.

THE POWER being applied in a direct line with the resistance of the cotton packed the re is but little friction and, as a natural consequence, but little wear We are fully satisfied that our Little Giant Press will outwear any two presses of any other kind in the market. These and many other reasons can be given why the "Little Giant" is not only the best but cheapest press on the market, and we would be glad to have you give it a trial.

Sample press can be seen at our Machinery Warehouse Thousands
